

Death Comes To Charles S. Warner At Hospital After Long Illness Active Politically For Many Years

Charles Spencer Warner passed in death at the Franklin County hospital Wednesday night of last week as briefly announced in the Press last week. He was in his 79th year and had been ill for a long time. For thirty years he had been a resident of Northfield, choosing the community for a home while making a visit here during his residence in Somerville where he was engaged in business and had been a member of its Board of Aldermen. He loved Northfield and sought its welfare and gave perhaps as no other man of his time and effort to its affairs. He was perhaps for many years the most prominent and leading Republican in politics. For many years he served as the chairman of the Republican Town Committee and was a potent force in county and state politics. He was a member of the House of Representatives in 1921 and 1922 and in 1925 served on the electoral college from the state which selected Calvin Coolidge as President and Charles C. Dawes as Vice-President of the United States. For ten years he was the auditor for the town of Northfield and a painstaking and efficient official. Gradually as age and illness came upon him he retired to private life but was enriched in his memory and experience by the visits of many friends. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Odd Fellows, the Sons of Veterans and of the Sons of the American Revolution. He and his wife were members of the local Congregational church.

Charles S. Warner

Albert H. Chamberlain

Albert H. Chamberlain a former resident of Northfield died at his home in Greenfield on Haywood street on Thursday of last week at the age of 75 years. He had been in poor health for some time.

Born on March 15, 1862, in Stockbridge, Vt., he was the son of John and Mary (Townsend) Chamberlain. He spent his boyhood there and later lived in Rochester, Vt. He lived in Northfield before going to Greenfield to make his home about thirty years ago. He followed the trade of carpenter but retired about 8 years ago. He was a member of the First Methodist church of Greenfield. Many friends will mourn his loss.

Surviving are his wife, the former Rosa M. Stearns of Northfield, one daughter, Mrs. Gertrude L. Canedy of Greenfield, one son Clifford H. Chamberlain of West Swanzey, N. H. and one brother Charles M. Chamberlain of Rochester, Vt. Also six grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. The funeral was held at his late home last Saturday with Dr. H. F. Randolph officiating and burial was in the Green River cemetery.

Mrs. Robert C. Ray

Information has reached the Press of the death of Mrs. Albie E. Ray, widow of Rev. Robert C. Ray at her home in East Providence, R. I., on Sunday, Jan. 2 after a brief illness at the age of 83 years. Mrs. Ray with her husband were among the earliest supporters of the conference works of Dwight L. Moody and were among the first to establish a summer residence in East Northfield which has been maintained by the family to the present. Mrs. Ray was born in Bucyrus, Ohio Aug. 27, 1854 a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. Warren Norton. She was a graduate of the Ohio State Normal school and was married to Rev. Robert C. Ray then of Kirksville, Mo., about 60 years ago. Ten years later they moved to Providence, R. I. where they made their home. Her husband died several years ago. She is survived by two sons, Frank N., with whom she made her home, John W., and one daughter Mrs. Lalah R. Russell. One sister Mrs. Nathaniel P. Williams who resides in California. Also several grandchildren and great grandchildren. The funeral was held the following Tuesday and burial was in the family plot in Carpenters cemetery, Rumford, R. I.

Summer Visitor Dies

From Philadelphia to friends here comes the news of the death of Mrs. Caroline Burk Girard age 92 years. She was a member of a well known family and died Friday, Jan. 7. She was the widow of Francis Girard. For a great many years she had been a frequent visitor to Northfield attending the conferences and two years ago spent part of the summer at the Northfield hotel in company with her daughter Mrs. Ellie G. Ingram. She left another daughter Mrs. Walter W. Hensel and a son Herbert Girard. The funeral was held the following Tuesday at her home and burial was in Mt. Vernon cemetery, Philadelphia.

The Town Caucus Will Meet Tonight At The Town Hall

This Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock the voters of the town are urged to gather in town caucus to nominate candidates for the various town offices for the ensuing year to be voted upon at the time of the annual town meeting Monday, Feb. 7.

Nominations for the following offices must be made: a Town Clerk for one year; a Town Treasurer for one year; a Collector of Taxes for one year; three Selectmen for one year; one member of Board of Assessors for three years and one member for one year to fill vacancy; a Moderator for one year; two members of the Library Trustees for a term of three years and one member for one year to fill vacancy; one member of the School Committee for three years; one Cemetery Commissioner for three years; four Constables for one year; one tree warden for one year.

The caucus may transact such other business as may legally come before it. The caucus will be called to order by the Town Clerk Mrs. Josephine Haskell. Notices of the caucus have been posted in the usual manner by the Selectmen.

Unitarian Church Profits From Will

It is announced that by the will of the late Amy Bowles Alexander of Springfield which was filed in Probate court of Hampden county Monday, the Unitarian church of Northfield is bequeathed the sum of $5,000 and all of Miss Alexander's real estate and interest in Northfield and in the town of Winchester. To the Dickinson library in Northfield she wills her books as a memorial to her father. Miss Alexander's estate totals more than $120,000 and Henry D. Vining of Springfield and Robert S. Kneeland of Longmeadow are named as executors.

Women's Societies Of Church Met

Members of the various women's organizations of the Congregational church held their joint annual session in the church last Friday with supper served to all. The various societies through their presidents gave a most interesting account of their activities during the year. The annual election was held and the following were chosen: Mrs. F. H. Montague, president; Mrs. E. J. Livingston, vice-president; Mrs. George Norton, secretary. About seventy persons sat down to a most enjoyable supper and an address was given by Mrs. Holbrook of Keene following. Her subject was "Our Community Church."

Youth Hostel Items

Isabel Smith has returned from a week's trip to New York where she and Monroe Smith attended a number of important meetings and conferences. Mr. Smith has since been in Chicago and is now on his way to Seattle, Wash., where he will confer with the hotel regional committee and prominent business and community leaders. A field worker, John G. Hanna has been in Seattle for three months organizing meetings and laying the ground work for a hostel chain in this region. Mr. Smith will stay at the home of Dr. Walter Hiltner whose son, Arthur, attended the first AYH training course last February and who worked at headquarters here until last June. He was an assistant leader of one of the European hostel groups last summer and is now completing his college training at the University of Washington.

A Percy Pitt accompanied Monroe Smith on his lecture tour to Utica, Rochester, Buffalo and Detroit. He then returned to Northfield via Reading, Pa., accompanied as far as Reading by Archie Stark, field worker for that region. Plans are being made for extending the Pennsylvania hostel chain.

Three members of the AYH staff were driven to Warwick by Dr. Wright to attend the ski exhibition held there on Saturday. Being hostlers they skied the eight miles back to Northfield that evening by the light of the full moon.

Reporting Progress Says Bulletin

The issue of the Northfield Schools Bulletin now being sent out is one of the most illuminating pieces of literature ever issued by the Northfield Schools in giving an account of its stewardship, the development of the Seminary and Mount Hermon and as its title implies, a reported progress through the years since their founding by Dwight L. Moody.

Statistics are given not in cold figures but rather in comparative illustrations that entice the interest of the reader. A financial report for the year ending June 30, 1937 conveys an idea of the magnitude of the work of the schools. For this year $658,000 was expended and of the income $325,000 came from student fees, $145,000 from income of investments and from gifts and donations $78,000.

The schools have nearly $3,500,000 invested in real estate buildings and equipment and have about $4,200,000 in securities and mortgages. There are now about 26,725 members of the alumni of the schools located throughout the world.

The matter of expanding the schools capacity to accommodate greater numbers is a grave one. The present size of the student body seems to be ideal but the demand for admission is so great that additional students can only be accepted at such a time when additional equipment and facilities are provided. Friends of the schools realizing the situation must provide for any expansion. Mount Hermon needs an adequate and modern infirmary, three additional dormitories, the enlargement and modernization of the gymnasium and modern recitation building. Other requirements at the Seminary are also desirable.

In the book is listed the trustees, a map of this territory and forms for various requests.

The brochure as we have said is an enlightening piece of literature sure to carry its message and educational in that it tells the story of the Northfield Schools as it exists at present.

A copy should be in the possession of all friends in a position to be of service to the Northfield Schools.

Memorial Service For Professor Duley

A memorial service for Prof. Frank L. Duley will be held at the Vesper hour at the Northfield Seminary on Sunday at five o'clock, Jan. 30. The meeting will be in Stone Hall and the townsfolk of Northfield who knew and loved him are invited to attend. Details of the program are not yet available but will be given further publicity in next week's issue of the "Press."

Hear Miss Coit

Miss Eleanor G. Coit of the Affiliated Schools for Workers, whose headquarters are in New York City, spoke to the Seminary faculty on Tuesday afternoon on the subject of adult education. She told of the work the Affiliated Schools are doing in that field. They are: The Bryn Mawr Summer school, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; the Southern Summer school, Arden, N. C.; the School for Office Workers at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.; and the School for Workers in Industry at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin.

A Housewarming

A housewarming and dinner party was given at Merrill-Keep hall, the new Seminary dormitory building, last Saturday evening by the 44 students and several members of the faculty who occupy it.

The architect, Ralph H. Doane, who is an alumnus of Mount Hermon school and who has drawn the plans for several of the buildings erected in recent years on both campuses, came from Milton with Mrs. Doane to attend the housewarming. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John L. Grandin, and Levett Candee, all of Boston.

It is rumored that arrangements are being made by the postmaster of the Northfield office to have the lobby of the office open on holidays during the day so that box-holders may call to secure their mail, at a time of their own choosing.

In Behalf of a Most Worthy Appeal

LILY PONS, Metropolitan Opera star, and member of the National Women's Council, with Keith Morgan, chairman of Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, and a painting done by Howard Chandler Christy, at National Headquarters in New York City. Miss Pons is holding her membership certificate. The Christie painting will be used as the front cover of the 1938 President's Birthday Magazine.

No celebration of the President's birthday in aid of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will be held in Northfield on January 29 but instead plans are under way for a county observance in the State Armory at Greenfield on the evening of that date. Carl H. Atwood of Greenfield has been named County Chairman and all towns in the county are expected to co-operate. Arrangements for the holding of the ball are under way.

Mercury Tumbles; Six Inches Snow; Everybody Shivers

Saturday last ushered in a period of cold weather that established a record for the past three years. On Sunday the snow was piling up and throughout the whole of Western Massachusetts the plows were kept busy. Main highways were kept open but back roads presented quite a problem. Confronting the work of the crews of the plows was a strong north wind which continually caused the snow to drift. There was not much traffic on the highways and only those who found it necessary to be on the roads were out. Trading at stores was light and in the larger places there was plenty of room to be found for parking. Snow had ceased falling by Monday night but the cold was ever increasing and low temperatures were reported. From various places in Northfield the thermometer dropped from 10 to 15 degrees below zero. Temperatures on Monday established a new low record for the past two years.

Here is what was reported in Western Massachusetts: Lenox, 24; East Lee, 22; Dalton, 22; Pittsfield, 20; Ware, 20; Charlestown, 16; Greenfield, 12; Stockbridge, 12; Brattleboro, 10.

Tuesday night the coldest was reported and temperatures went even lower. Folks kept indoors as much as possible and the home fires were kept burning. The nights are moonlight and with so much snow about the effect is most artistic and beautiful. The young folks are enjoying all kinds of winter sports: sleighing, tobogganing, sledding, skating and skiing. It's a real winter we are having.

Springfield-Hermon Club Meets Tonight

The Springfield-Mt. Hermon club is holding its annual session at the Oaks hotel in that city this Friday evening with Jerome Burt, president of the Hermon alumni association as the guest speaker. The banquet will start at 7 o'clock with Edward Soles as toastmaster. Mr. Burt was formerly principal of Springfield's High School of Commerce and left to become director of secondary education in the State Department of Education. At present he is superintendent of schools in Fitchburg. Prof. H. H. Morse will bring the greetings of the Mount Hermon school to the assembled alumni.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Atty William A. Davenport of Greenfield may be an independent candidate for Governor of the state at the next election. He bases his candidacy on tax reduction and reform and will circulate nomination papers if it is said. Mr. Davenport began his political career as a Republican and was elected to the Senate but when he sided with Governor Curley he suffered defeat for re-election and came out as the Democratic candidate only to be defeated by Senator James A. Gunn of Turners Falls.

Mrs. Jennie Maria (Arms) Sheldon died Saturday, Jan. 15 at her home in Deerfield at the age of 85. She was a curator and president of the Pocumtuck Valley Memorial society and a trustee of Deerfield Academy. She was the widow of George A. Sheldon the Deerfield historian and was herself long and favorably known by members of various historical societies.

Two candidates have already thrown their "hats in the ring" for the position of District Attorney at the next election which comes in September. They are Dist. Atty. David H. Keedy of Amherst the present incumbent and Atty. Merrill E. Torrey of Northampton who was defeated in the last campaign by Mr. Keedy. Rumor has it that Atty. Charles Fairhurst, Atty. Henry P. Herr and Atty. John Haseltine all of Greenfield may enter the contest also.

A "rookie cop" just serving his third day on the Greenfield police force got a fine induction into its activities last week when with another officer he was gaining experience. In the early hours of the morning they spied tracks in the snow leading to the Potter grain house and following them up caught a young man attempting to rob the safe. They got their man. The officers were Patrolmen E. L. Crawford and John O'Hara.

Lawrence Barker has been arrested in Del Rio, Texas. He was the ticket agent at the railroad station in Brattleboro who skipped out Nov. 17 when auditors had arrived to audit his accounts. They found he was short $2000. He left the office to go for lunch and has been gone a long time. He is being brought back to Brattleboro to face charges.

Rural Mail Boxes Should Be Kept Accessible Now

Is your rural mail box accessible to the rural mail carrier and is its area being kept free from snow? Postmaster Kennedy, dean of postmasters in this district has called attention to the matter and states that mail will not be delivered to mail boxes in his area unless the approaches are kept free of snow and the boxes accessible. According to postal regulations the mail intended for boxes inaccessible will be taken back to the post office, as provided by postal regulations.

Northfield carriers say that most of their boxes are accessible and that only a few remain to be cleared. Our rural carriers appreciate any co-operation given to this matter by those who receive mail. All having rural boxes are urged to give speedy attention to this matter so carriers can deliver mail properly and conveniently. All snow should be cleared so as to permit the automobile to drive up to the box.

Is A Scrapper

It was reported last week through the news that two prisoners in Charlestown prison put on a bad fight just as the convicts, forty of them, were filling out of the automobile plate shop for lunch. The two engaged in the fight were Andrew Wikup, 21 of Holyoke and Ernest Venette 29 formerly of Warwick. Guards collared the two combatants and they were placed in solitary confinement. Venette, is the fellow who was convicted of breaking and entering the home of H. S. Streeter in Bernardston in July 1935 and against whom a complaint was filed for the larceny of a bicycle owned by Mary Hammond of Northfield Farms which was taken on the same day. Venette looks like a hard proposition.

Congressman Treadway has sent to many of his former friends here a leaflet containing a list of government publications on farm problems, which he will be glad to have forwarded as selected upon request.

The winter's snow this season thus far measures officially 23 inches and is presumed to be much more than last season for the same period. Weather prophets predicted some 24 inches and since we have had only about seven falls of snow there must be something more coming to us.

Miss Martinetta Wright

Miss Martinetta Wright who for the past several years has resided in Northfield died early Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Mabel Makepeace on Warwick avenue where she was under the care of Miss Mae Kiblin. Miss Wright was 80 years of age and was a native of Addison, Maine to which place her body was taken for burial after funeral services were held. Before coming to Northfield Miss Wright had resided in Newtonville and she built the large and beautiful home called "Gray Gables" in Mountain Park, which she occupied during each summer. Miss Wright had been in poor health for several years. She leaves only a niece Mrs. Guy Bailey of Melrose Highlands.

A Bible Conference

On Wednesday at the Goodale Memorial church in Bernardston another of the series of Bible conferences was held and attended by several from Northfield. The morning session began at 10:30 o'clock with a prayer and praise service led by Mrs. Sidney Marcy who has just returned from missionary work in San Jose Costa Rica. After a basket lunch the afternoon session opened at two o'clock. Among the speakers were Mrs. William H. Glebel whose subject was "The messages from the Psalms" and Mrs. Mabel R. Makepeace who gave an illustrated children's talk. There was an evening session also.

Here is an important date to reserve. Thursday evening, Feb. 17 when there will be given a roast turkey supper at the Vernon church. The women are making preparations to entertain all their guests.

The very foundation of individual, national and world prosperity, says the "Manufacturers' Record" is religion. Without the guiding influence of religion and the power it has over mankind this nation would sink back into barbarism, and no business in the world would be safe.

The world is in a turmoil, partly economic, but largely through the failure of religion in the hearts and lives of those who profess it.

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, mind and strength is the Divine command, and thy neighbor as thyself. Those who constitute the membership of our church are striving to carry out this Divine command. Ninety per cent of the families are regular attendants and mingle together as one happy family.

Sunday, Jan. 16 our pastor, Rev. Harold B. Ingalls was inspired by his drive up the Mountain to preach on God's beauties in nature. The snowflake was his first thought, millions there are and no two just alike, and it was a problem what he could do had a car been coming in the opposite direction with snowflakes piled high on either side (but it didn't happen). The greater creations of God are so stupendous that they stagger the imagination. Everything that is or happens in the world belongs either to nature or art—sometimes called the art of God. Nature is the expression of the Divine, but art is the expression of the human. Nature or God has put all the matter there is in the world, into it man uses that—matter. He combines it, but he cannot add anything to what nature, God, has put there. Art means to put or fit things together. There you have the difference between nature (God) and art in a nutshell. Nature (God) puts everything in to the world, man puts together what the God of Nature has put there.

The Bible school followed the preaching service then came the regular business meeting of the church in which the Covenant and By-Laws of the church were adopted and officers elected.

CONCERNING THE SCHOOL LUNCH BOX

WHAT is so rare as a morning which is not hurried when there are school lunches to pack? Here then are some ideas to lessen the "hurry." Puddings and salads can be made up the day before, placed in covered paper containers or in hollowed-out orange or tomato shells, and these can be stored in the refrigerator all ready to be tucked away in the lunch box "come morning." Much time can also be saved in the morning if you make the luncheon sandwiches up the night before and store them in the refrigerator also. Such a luncheon supply of sandwiches can be wrapped in wax paper, of course, but if you have a modern ice refrigerator you have probably learned that it isn't necessary to cover foods to prevent rapid drying out and mingling of food flavors. A supply of clean-washed, properly-moist air is constantly circulating around the food in the air-conditioned ice refrigerator, carrying off odors which otherwise might spread to other foods. But speaking of sandwiches here is a grand "sandwich filler" that you can make up and keep on hand in your refrigerator. PIMIENTO CREAM FILLING (Makes 1 1/2 cups filling). Scald 1/2 cup evaporated milk, add 3 cups American cheese (cut in cubes) and heat over low flame, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted. Remove from flame, add 1/2 cup pimiento (cut fine) and a dash of salt, blend thoroughly. Chill in ice refrigerator and use as needed.

Mileage Hints

By J. F. Winchester
Supervisor of Motor Vehicle
Equipment, Colonial Esso Marketers

The average driver's opinion of a fuel is usually based on one of two factors: "How many miles can I get to the gallon?" or "How much does it cost per gallon?" Not often does the motorist take the long view of gasoline, as the view which looks not only to over-all performance, but to the effects the gas will have on his car. He may not realize that a good fuel prolongs the efficient operation of the engine itself by averting many types of the mechanical difficulties through which an engine shows its age.

Engineers who test gasoline put many other qualities ahead of mileage, because they are concerned, first, with the effect of the gasoline upon the engine throughout its life. They want the gasoline to start instantly and permit rapid warm-up of the car. This reduces use of the choke and minimizes flooding of the cylinders with raw gasoline that would wash oil off the pistons, hasten wear, and dilute the motor oil. This is particularly important in winter.

Engineers require that a gasoline form no carbon and gum since these reduce engine efficiency and necessitate overhauls. They require high anti-knock value, freedom from vapor lock and a number of other qualities too technical for brief description but all contributing to efficient engine operation and long life. Finally, they demand that the gasoline give good mileage.

The fastidious motorist will, in turn, be wise to demand all these qualities, and not just mileage at lowest possible cost. He will get more miles of efficient performance, avoid costly overhauls, and enhance the trade-in value of his car.

A LITTLE care in starting the automobile after periods of idleness pays dividends to the owner in miles of additional service. When the engine has stood overnight it should be warmed up slowly before the car is placed in motion. This is true in summer as well as in winter. There is nothing more injurious than racing the engine when the motor is cold. The oil is cold and somewhat less fluid than it is under normal running temperatures; circulation is impaired to some extent. The oil should be given time to warm up and engine parts opportunity to expand uniformly before any load is placed on the engine.

The throttle should never be opened suddenly nor left open very far when the car is standing and the engine idling. Any engine will suffer much more by racing while idle than in actual driving under load.

This extra attention helps the motorist obtain the long and efficient usage which the manufacturer intended his automobile to give.

How Much IS ENOUGH?

That is the question people ask when we say that GOOD lighting is largely a matter of having ENOUGH light for the particular task.

Here is a simple yard-stick for telling how much is enough in your own home. Take this newspaper and sit down in the chair where you ordinarily do your reading. Now—

- if your newspaper is 20-25 inches away from your light, you can get enough light from one 60-watt or two 40-watt bulbs.
- if your newspaper is 25-30 inches away, use one 75-watt or one 60-watt and one 40-watt bulb.
- if your newspaper is 30-35 inches away, you should use one 100-watt or two 60-watt bulbs.

Try this test in your home and see how much extra eye comfort you get by having ENOUGH light.

But remember that your lights must also be properly shaded to avoid glare.

Will Wage War On Caterpillars

4-H club members throughout the state will again make war on the tent caterpillar, according to an announcement from club headquarters at State college. An army of nearly 20,000 boys and girls from 10 to 21 years of age will be taking to the field to gather and burn the worms that destroy the beauty of roadside trees and shrubs.

Harley A. Leland, leader of the drive, said that club members have taken on this job because the widespread infestation of caterpillars has demanded a state-wide campaign of action. "Our highways have become poor advertisements of the beauty of the state because of defoliation caused by tent caterpillars. In some areas last summer the roadside trees looked as though a blight had struck them. The leaves were chewed away and the branches were covered with messy-looking gray webs. "We hope that with real effort on the part of club members over the state we can help restore the beauty of our highways."

The campaign will be carried on under the supervision of adult 4-H leaders in every community where clubs are organized. Boys and girls will compete with each other for the highest record and contests will be promoted between clubs in different sections. The winter months were selected for the campaign, Mr. Leland said, because the caterpillar egg clusters can be spied on the bare branches of roadside trees. Apple and wild cherry are the favorite hosts of the ten caterpillar.

The egg clusters are usually located near the tip ends of the branches and are cut off and carried to the local club headquarters to be counted and burned by the leader. Each cluster destroyed means the killing of from 300 to 500 caterpillars.

Mr. Leland said that the campaign is now officially open but that the period of March 15 to April 15 has been reserved for an intensive drive in which every club member will be called upon to do his share. It is hoped that something may be done in the matter in Northfield.

SOUTH VERNON

South Vernon church, Rev. George A. Gray pastor. Services Sunday, 10:45, morning worship; 12:15, church school; 7, praise service and sermon. Thursday evening, service at Vernon Home at 7 o'clock.

A card party was held at the South school Tuesday evening. There were six tables and Mrs. Ruth Holton and Wilfred Scherlin won first prize. Miss Helen Scherlin second prize and Mrs. Elsie Martineau, E. W. Dunklee were the committee in charge. Refreshments were served.

The truck of the Bamby Bread delivery skidded on the highway Tuesday near the Belding cottage in South Vernon Tuesday. It landed against a pole and tree and into a snowbank doing considerable damage to the car and causing the driver some severe bruises.

The weather here as elsewhere has been severely cold and traffic on the roads is considerably reduced. Most citizens are keeping in the comfort of their homes

A DIFFERENT SORT OF PUNCH FOR THE NEW YEAR

If you are planning a New Year's party, here is the very thing to give it that different sort of "punch". In fact, it is a punch—Cranberry Punch, to be specific. Served with plenty of crystal-clear, sparkling ice cubes, it's bound to start your 1938 entertaining schedule off with a bang. This recipe for CRANBERRY PUNCH serves 12 generously. To make it, prepare 1 1/2 cups cranberry juice by cooking 2 cups cranberries with 2 cups water and straining. Prepare 1 pint of strained tea by steeping 2 teaspoons tea leaves in 2 cups water for 5 minutes. Combine the cranberry juice and tea while they are hot and add 1/4 cup sugar. Set aside to cool. Just before serving the punch combine 1 1/2 cups orange juice, 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 pints ginger ale, and 1 cup crushed pineapple, and add it the first mixture. Then place 1 1/2 dozen ice cubes in punch bowl and pour the punch over them. Connoisseurs of punch-making prefer the use of the crystal-clear, taste-free ice cubes which can be made in 4 to 5 minutes from the pure, sparkling ice in a modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator with the aid of a handy, easy-to-use gadget called an ice cube

EDITORIAL

"Jimmy" Roosevelt is telling the Democrats where they can "get off" in this state. Evidently he is not with Governor Hurley in his policies for after his attendance at the Jackson Day dinner in Boston in leaving, he is quoted as saying: "It is my sincere belief that those who need secure and good jobs, those who want profits in their business, those who want security in their homes and those who want to see Massachusetts continue to forge ahead, expect a state administration in active sympathy with the aims and purposes of the national administration." What "Mr. James" meant was probably to get on the Roosevelt band wagon if we wanted to ride. However, there are a lot of us not riding.

For 58 years the Northfield Schools have occupied an important and unique place in the training of American youth. As far as results are concerned the fact that many graduates are recognized as leaders in the professional, business and religious worlds is incidental to the fact that there are over 20,000 living alumni and almost without exception they are key people in their communities. They are members of the comparatively small group that furnishes leadership to every forward movement.

The Back Yard Gardener

Well, I suppose most of you folks are just reveling in the beautiful catalogs, guides, annuals, or whatever they might be called. I am sure that you are getting all sorts of them at this time of the year, and they certainly are a great boost to our garden enthusiasm.

Incidentally, they are mighty helpful things to have around. I mean by that, don't use them only when you are ordering your seeds, but use them to study all phases of gardening. You will find many helpful suggestions. But the thing I wanted to

UP-SE-DAISY

Speak about this week was don't let those bright colored catalogs lull you to sleep. Right now during the dormant season is a mighty good time to control many pests which cannot be controlled at other times of the year. Some of these pesky pests are so tough that a spray strong enough to kill them in spring or summer will kill the growing branches and leaves, but now with the wood hardened the sprays will do no harm.

The most common sprays used at this time of year are the so-called oil sprays. I won't make any effort to tell you the various kinds because there are dozens, as you might say, on the market, but there are one or two things that need to be remembered. One is to follow directions specifically and to choose a day in the winter time when the temperature gets up to 45 or 50 degrees and has little chance of dropping below freezing for at least 10 or 12 hours after the spray has been applied.

You see, certain evergreens, like junipers, form a cup with their needles and hence are susceptible to injury unless the spray has a chance to dry before it freezes.

Another thing to remember is, if you are using sulphur on your trees or shrubs, to separate the sulphur application and the oil application by at least a month.

So may I suggest that you make it a point to give a thorough check-up to your trees and shrubs to be sure that they aren't infested with some of these pests which can be killed best at this time of year. Examine your junipers, arbor vitae, and pines carefully for juniper scale or pine leaf scale. These are small, white raised patches about 1-16 of an inch in diameter.

Examine your deciduous trees and shrubs for scale enemies such as San Jose scale, oyster shell scale, European elm scale, scurvy scale, terrapin scale, golden oak scale, euonymus scale, rose scale, magnolia scale, cottony maple scale and so on.

Then you want to look for evidence of pests like pine bark aphid, spruce gall aphid, catappa mealy bugs, and so on. Take that San Jose scale, that is known to attack more than 200 different kinds of trees and shrubs. And oyster shell scale is found particularly on apples, willows, ash, dogwoods, lilacs, and so on.

Most of us I am sure won't be able to recognize all of these various pests. In that case I'd suggest that here in Massachusetts you write either to the State college at Amherst or to the Waltham Field station at Waltham and ask for any leaflets which they have.

Also remember, as I said before, to follow directions on the packages when using a spray, because careless handling may harm some of the tender trees like sugar maple, beech, and walnut and tender shrubs. And again let me remind you to spray only when there is no danger of the spray freezing.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

IF the brass band is restored to its oldtime popularity in America, a large part of the credit will go to Edwin Frank Goldman. As head of the American Bandmasters' Association, and a high ranking member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, he is busy upon a new deal for the brass band. And by new deal he means new music.

Bandmen are actually putting such old standbys as the "William Tell Overture" away and are now bowing to the foremost living composers with music expressly written for brass bands.

While recapturing the band's former prestige with first class music by first class living writers, Goldman plans, too, to effect an international standardization of band instruments. Today, he will tell you, countries differ in the band instruments. Such a system is a handicap to progress.

Goldman is a bandman, first and last. With his concerts in New York's Central Park, he is popularizing band music in Manhattan as it has not been since the days of Patrick Gilmore was gathered to his fathers. But he and others have been hampered by the pieces at their disposal. Outside of the marches of Sousa and himself and a few others and the old weather-beaten overtures and transcriptions, there was no real music available.

The old masters, he points out, didn't write for the brass band, but for orchestras, choral societies, or the opera stage or the piano. "When we play their compositions we have to play special transcriptions. Now we can play music by the leading living composers of Europe and America. These musicians are welcoming the opportunity. There's big money for them in band music. At the same time, they know there is no sacrifice of their artistic integrity."

Vamp Till Ready
Dance bandmen like to shy away from the term "jazz," like to assert in their sudden new broadcasting dignity that jazz isn't true American music. But what is true American music? Perhaps, the boys here it is the war whoops and tub-thumpings of the Indians.

For more than two decades jazz has dominated American music. Prior to that time it traveled under the name of ragtime. But whether it is called ragtime or swing, it is the symbol of the American dance.

It has received the glad hand of every important interpreter of music in the land from symphony conductor to restaurant pianists. Not one of them can call it anything but American.

Tunes, tunes, tunes—they're the ever-crying demand of the radio rajahs. In the hope of getting more tunes, the rajahs, in the past, have even tried limiting the broadcasting of the more popular airs to once every five hours. The plan didn't turn the trick. The parlor may have been spared an over-dinnering of a ditty, but good songs, it was quickly learned, are not turned out like so many crullers in a Broadway window.

The radio rulers cannot say to such fertile tunesmiths as Jerome Kern, Vincent Youmans, Harold Arlen, Richard Rodgers, Joe Burke, Fred Ahlert and Joe Young, Nacio Herb Brown, Warren and Dubin, Fields and McHugh, Gordon and Revel, that they want a first class tune by 6 o'clock tonight. First class tunes take time, take inspiration, take imagination. Sometimes they even take a good memory. Mass production won't help the song shops or the radio.

Albert von Tilzer's swingy old tune, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game"—the best baseball song, probably, ever written—was given a hearty airing on the microphones during the World Series. Yet, we never hear the song that we don't recall Harpo Marx's hilarious scene in the film, "A Night at the Opera". In one of his maddest moments, Harpo, you'll remember, inserted the tune into the orchestral score of "Rigoletto", and loosed a panic in the opera house.

Songwriters have never been successful in their invasion of the kitchen. Maybe, it's because glamour is missing. "Cooking Breakfast for the One I Love" and "Washing Dishes with My Sweetie" may be novel expression of unselfish devotion but they lack the good, true cash-registering note of romantic attachment. "Home on the Range" is not a kitchen song.

The great fundamental fact about radio is that popularity is quickly exhausted. A good tune may be repeated a few weeks without bringing on an earache. In that respect, a good tune has an advantage over a good gag. A good gag can be aired only once.

It's difficult to recall there were once songs in the land called "Standing in the Old Broad Lane" and "Since I Took the Keeley Cure."
